 question on energy problem re reports in british media whether ussr has not misjudged its future energy requirements, argues that ussr in fact is only great power in world that not only produces enough oil and gas to meet its own needs but has sizeable amounts left over for export; it is some of western countries that are having to pay for serious errors of judgment in this field, such as neglecting their coal industries at time of low oil prices; origin in british media reports has always been cia and purpose is political -- to increase pressure on ussr by all kinds of sanctions; such sanctions, as you know, have proved utter fiasco. (enguk 1900)
